MUNOZ CENTRAL SCHOOL HISTORY

Muñoz Central School in Science City of Muñoz is the biggest central school in the division. It is in the city proper one kilometer away from the Maharlika Highway, 30 kilometers north of Cabanatuan City, a stone throw from the municipal building and the church, and on walking distance from the market and commercial establishments.

Muñoz Central School started from a makeshift hovel in the year 1901 as a lone teacher school in the woodland of Papaya which was the first name of the earliest settlement. Antonio Buenaventura was the first teacher, followed by Gregorio Magno in 1905, by Nicholas Ruiz who became a mayor of Muñoz and by Juan Tabing.

This frontier school closed its door when lawless elements led by Juan Tangkad infiltrated the settlement and the people fled to Palusapis which was then a barrio of Guimba. When peace and order was restored, settlers returned to Papaya and established the Municipality of Muñoz in 1914 with Tranquilino Delos Santos as the first mayor in an election done by raising of hands. Papaya was named Munoz in honor of Francisco de Muñoz, a Spanish military officer of Nueva Ecija who established a hunting rendezvous in the area which is now Barangay Balante.

With the organization of the new town, the Muñoz Elementary school was reopened with Mr. Gavino Fulgencio as the first principal. A lone teacher was simultaneously owing in Rang-ayan where the first intermediate class was opened ahead of the central school.

In the year 1918, classes in central school and Rang-ayan were suspended due to influenza epidemic that plagued the infant's municipality and killed several people including school children. When classes reopened in 1919, the school District of Munoz was organized with Eugenio Ramos as the first District Supervisor and Apolonio Zabat as the principal of the Munoz Elementary School, which was later called the Muñoz Cental School.

It is bounded by Bantug in the East, Catalanacan in the west, Pobacion North in the North and the town of Talavera in the south. At present, Muñoz Central School was considered as the biggest school in the Division of Science City of Muñoz. It has been the center for seminars, trainings, workshops and other activities within the division. It is in the heart of the City, a stone throw from the market and other commercial establishment.
