

Implementation of Safety Rules in School

School is a place where students spend bulk of their working hours. Parents accompanied their children to school in order to have a environment in school because they believe that the school will look them well and ensure their safety. Thus, it is the responsibility of each school to ensure the safety of students. That is why, school must implement safety rules in school and find different ways in which teachers and educators can implement safety rules school. In order to be safe in school premises, learners and stakeholders should follow the rules and read more examples on how to implement those rules for them to know what to do for security and protection of everyone.

The biggest question raised according to one study was “Why safety rules at school are important?” First, they help students become more obedient. Students nowadays have difficulties in improving their attitudes. School has to train students to become respectful especially to their teachers and those teachers will not only teach how to increase their academic performance but to be a good person as well. Secondly, it improves the trust between schools and parents. This aims to collaborate the school and parents’ confidence that their children in school will attain the expectations of the parents in order to grow and develop. In addition, students will be safer at school. Schools have security to maintain whatever fight of the students will be encountered and also any type of mishap or injury can be avoided because of the security force provided by the school. As for the learners, their security is to follow the rules of the school whatever atmosphere may have. This may enhance their knowledge and skills regarding topic that they are studying. Next, they build confidence in their teachers and educators. As a second parent in school, parents are responsible for teaching and learning processes in the school for them to realize that having an education is the most powerful weapon that no one can steal. They build communication to them to learn and discover new things that they may apply not only in the school but to their home as well.

Before looking into how one can implement safety rules at school, school leaders shall look at some basic rules that have to be followed in every school to ensure the security of each and every student. It is vital that policies be implemented for bullying students. One of those is bullying should not be tolerated and encouraged in any school because this may affect students' emotional aspects and bring negative impact on their lives. Also, self – confidence will not be improved. So, one should be careful on what she does or in what one should implement in the school. Bullying may have such a profound effect on them that it leaves them permanently traumatized. Also, students are aware of memorizing emergency numbers. In order to aid them in an emergency, make sure that the pupils are memorizing the emergency phone numbers. The emergency numbers can include their parents, their class teacher, or any other teacher in the school. Applying all these safety rules at school will have a great impact to all educators, parents and teachers in order to have a safe environment for all especially to the students who have ambition to become successful one day.

There are elements of a health and safety policy in school. The abbreviation PACD represents those elements. P stands for PLAN. Leaders should at least provide directions for effective and efficient health and safety administration. A means ACT. Everyone must have a formal administration review for health and safety performance of the school. C means for CHECKING. This means that they must have a monitoring and reporting of what the school needed in order to have proper management of health and safety aspects of life. D for DO. They must present the administration systems and policies which ensures danger that distributed with sensibly, responsibly and uniformly.

They must bear in minds that “Safeguarding is most successful when all aspects are integrated together. Three key elements include a clear safeguarding ethos, a policy that sets out clear expectations and processes, and high-quality training that ensures staff and students know what to do and then apply it uniformly throughout the school.” (Andrew Hall, 2019). We must do what is right and what is proper in order to have a clear mind about all the risks that we may encounter. The good followers must follow the implemented rules in the school. For our students to become successful they must be, loved and respected. Someday, those students will provide better education not only for themselves but for the whole nation as well. That is the essence of a good follower.
